

Increasing Non-Contingent Interactions

The following guiding questions go with the Increasing Non-Contingent Interactions video that is a part of the follow up to the Behavior Interventions in the Classroom professional learning. The guiding questions can be used for individual reflection or when facilitating small or whole group discussion after viewing the video.

Guiding Questions

1. Make a list of all of the ways that you already routinely have non-contingent interactions with your students.
2. Is there a time of day or subject area in which you would like to start intentionally increasing your use of non-contingent interactions?
3. How can you make the non-contingent interactions more intentional each day?

Michigan's MTSS Technical Assistance Center is funded by the Michigan Department of Education and the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs.